

Marchington Parish Council: Publication Scheme Guide to Information

Introduction

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 gives a general right of access to all types of recorded information held by public authorities including Parish Councils. The act sets out exemptions from that right and places a number of obligations on public authorities. Any person who makes a request to a public authority for information must be informed whether it holds that information and, subject to exemptions, supplied with that information.

The act adds to existing rights under the Data Protection Act 1998 which gave individuals the right of access to information about themselves. For Parish Councils, the Freedom of Information Act extended this right to allow public access to all types of information held. On 1st January, 2009 a new model publication scheme came into force which applies to all public authorities. Marchington Parish Council adopted this model publication scheme.

The purpose of this document is to describe the classes of document available and the costs for providing them. Items marked * are available on the web pages and can be reached starting from the Parish Council introduction page at <https://marchingtonparishcouncil.org/>
